

Arvin Navigation Center FAQ

What is a Navigation Center?

Navigation Centers provide a friendly, low-barrier environment in which people experiencing homelessness can rest, shower, eat, do laundry, and be connected to services such as crisis intervention, substance use treatment, mental health care, and other benefit programs designed to help the individual move toward stable housing.

Unlike other shelters that have restrictive rules, Navigation Centers typically try to break down barriers and take a "come as you are" approach to engaging in services. Ultimately, the goal is to build trust that may lead to deeper engagement and reintegration in mainstream social systems.

Flood Bakersfield Ministries, Inc. (Flood) has agreed to operate the Navigation Center. Flood provides services designed to meet the physical, relational and spiritual needs for those who are deeply impoverished in our community with an emphasis on housing stability to promote self-worth, increased self-sufficiency and greater overall health.

Flood has been working with persons experiencing homelessness to connect them to resources since 2006 and has placed more than 1,600 individuals into permanent housing since 2007.

Flood incorporated as a non-profit in June 2008 and established a drop-in center in an old warehouse in north Bakersfield. In addition to providing food and other necessities, Flood evolved its unique style of relationship-based case management and housing placement.

Flood has since become a leading homeless service provider in Kern County and has been the primary provider of street outreach services since 2011. Flood engages with several hundred people each year on the streets

Flood also provides a range of programs and services to formerly homelessness individuals to help them stay in housing and has a 90% plus retention rate.

Some of these services include benefits acquisition and linkage with physical and behavioral health treatment and other community supports; life skills training.

Flood is a faith-based organization, but does not limit access to services, as its services are available to all.

Flood has developed a good neighbor policy that will provide a mechanism to gather input from all vested stakeholders, including neighboring businesses and residents, City and County officials, and collaborative agencies, to facilitate the timely exchange of ideas and issues, to work toward proactive solutions, and to ensure all parties have a full voice in minimizing the impact to the local community.
